Assumed characteristics -
total guesswork!

Local rumours and alleged sightings

- Seen at sunrise above Merstone, glowing like a flying bonfire.
- Dropped a golden feather near a hedgerow.
- Left a circle of warm ash that did not burn the grass.
- One witness swears it sneezed sparks over a field.
- Another insists it bowed after applause.

Speculative evidence

Funny-looking feather

Probably phoenix.
Possibly goose.
Confidence level: wobbly.

Warm ash sample

Still warm.
Did not burn the grass.
Suspiciously dramatic.

Singed ribbon

Phoenix clue, windy accident,
or picnic disaster?
Nobody agrees.

Questions that remain unanswered (all of them)

1. Does the phoenix burst into flames, or simply make an entrance?
2. Can it roast marshmallows by accident?
3. Why do feathers vanish just before anyone grabs one?
4. Would it ever perch on a bus stop?
5. Is it noble, mischievous, or both before breakfast?
